

What does student activism mean today?

A Case Study from Spain

Melina Tsapos (Host)
Phd Candidate
Department of Philosophy
Lund University

You are cordially invited to the inauguration of a series in public philosophy dedicated to topical (and sometimes controversial) questions.

In our current era of polarization, terms such as student activism often hold multiple and contested meanings. What would happen if we were to invite discourse on both sides of the debate?

Jordan Jacobs (Guest)
Visiting Researcher
Centre for Theology and Religious Studies
Lund University

Erik J. Olson (Respondent)
Professor
Department of Philosophy
Lund University

May 22, 2025 | 17:15-18:30 | LUX B237 | Helgonavägen 3 | Lund

Audience participation and engagement (as well as decorum and politeness) is expected and encouraged. Zoom option available upon request.

